sky Lab APAC managing director Harry Chueng. More than 70,000 unique malware samples are identified every day by Kaspersky Lab experts, and the company says this version represents an ideal option as it requires no investment in IT infrastructure or equipment, no specialist security skills, and can be easily scaled up or down to meet changing business needs.

Quote of the day

"When the future of our business is concerned, my father brought me up through the rank and file, and I had to start at the lowest rank. He was a task master and disciplinarian. There was no short cuts and it's pertinent for a family business that you do not just get successors to sit in a post."
