

Statements such as the following should be used to indicate the characteristics of students.

examples for undergraduate programs:

- Undergraduate programs have been developed to serve full-time students graduating from secondary school programs in Malaysia.
- A large portion of the undergraduate population is composed of first-generation college students.