UUM LAW GRADUATES MUST MEET THE NEEDS OF CLIENTS, PROFESSION AND COMMUNITY

UUM ONLINE: Law graduates of Universiti Utara Malaysia (UUM) are greatly expected to meet the needs of customers, professions and communities as well as demonstrate practical skills of law, skills of advocacy and skills of consultancy whether in civil or criminal affairs.

UUM Pro-Chancellor, Yang Amat Berbahagia, Tun Dato' Sri (Dr.) Ahmad Fairuz Dato' Sheikh Abdul Halim said various efforts has been taken to equip law graduates with sufficient knowledge and skills to confront the flow of globalization in the legal sector.

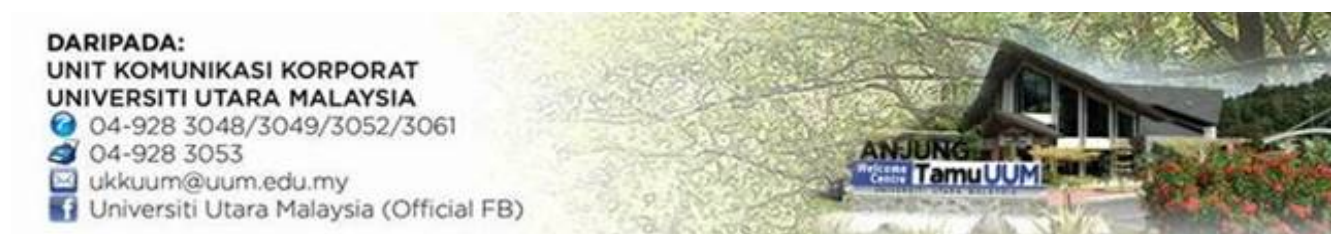

"Hence, I hope that the legal education which you have undergone has moulded your thoughts in ways of thinking wisely, critically, logically and rationally and also for all of you to have sufficient skills and aptitude in law or jurisdiction to serve the profession, society, nation and the mankind.

"Become the judges, attorneys, lawmakers, advisors or educators in the field of law who always empower, cultivate and promote truth and justice as well as possess principles namely trustworthiness, dedication, transparency, integrity, honesty and ethics without thinking of rewards and personal gain or family benefits but rather work to propagate the excellence and well-being of religion, race and nation.

"May UUM and UUM School of Law continue to produce graduates who have the skills for lifelong learning and career development while having an awareness to uphold the sovereignty of law and social justice," he said when delivering his speech at the seventh session of the UUM 31st. Convocation Ceremony at Mu'adzam Shah Hall.

He also expressed hope that the graduands who were celebrated will continue to excel particularly in providing the best services to those who need legal advice and legal assistance.

A total of 723 graduates received their respective degrees including 97 graduates from the Bachelor of Law with honours from Tun Dato 'Sri (Dr.) Ahmad Fairuz.
