LITERATURE REVIEW: TIPS TOWARD WRITING QUALITY THESIS

This workshop aims to help postgraduate students in the writing of a critical literature review that is appropriate for the preparation of a high quality thesis or dissertation. This workshop covers the details of the basic literature review to answer the following question:

1. What is literature?
2. Why must we provide a literature review?
3. What needs to be done before writing a literature review?
4. How to implement the correct strategy in the writing of literature?

The workshop will also stress on intelligent reading skills which are required to make good reviews. This will be followed by hands-on activities where participants will be able to practice the skills used to intertwine and merge the identity of the theme of the selected literature as well as to paraphrase them.

After this workshop, participants will be able to understand:

1. How to write a good literature?
2. Things to avoid when writing a literature review.
3. How to write literature that can contribute towards a thesis or dissertation that is of a high quality?
