CeTMA'S TALK ON INTELLIGENCE AT FINGERTIPS: ENABLING TOOLS AND METHODS

Center for Testing, Measurement and Appraisal (CeTMA) has organized a talk on Intelligence at Fingertips: Enabling Tools and Methods on May 14, 2017 at the Seminar Hall C, Convention Complex which was delivered by Dr. Bharat Bhushan Verma. In his talk, Dr. Bharat Bhushan Verma has shared his experiences on his ongoing research particularly focusing on the new tools and methods used in data analytics. The talk began with an overview of the paradigmatic shift in data analysis ecosystem. Following that, the new age data analytics pipeline, service oriented frame works and enabling technological infrastructure for real time analytics were covered by Dr. Bharat Bhushan Verma. The speaker has briefly stated about the latest cases of machine learning, internet of things and other advances at the interface of man and machine. The necessity of mental switch to adopt new tools and methods was also emphasized where the speaker showed and demonstrated the new age of collaboration and productivity tools such as Jupyter, Anaconda, and D3, to name a few. CeTMA would like to take this opportunity to thank Dr. Bharat Bushan Verma for his great experience sharing. It is hoped that all participants found the talk to be both interesting and informative.

Thank you.
