Company overview

UNISTRATEGIC is the key provider of bespoke corporate training and public events. Our corporate workshops and conferences are attended by government organizations, multinational companies and well known regional corporations. Our public large scale events are catered to corporate and public audiences. We engage world leaders in all sectors like US President Bill Clinton to give speeches. The purpose of engaging them is to allow them to share their insights and views on many macro views on global issues with the general and private and non-private corporations.
