Overview

The book will be dedicated to the scholarly study of all aspects of Islamic Culture and Lifestyles and of the surrounding issues in the Islamic world. Particular attention is paid to works dealing with food safety, food history, food culture, halal lifestyles, food and politics, halal food economics, halal food anthropology, sociology, halal food law, halal sustainability and developmental issues of the halal ecosystem, as well as ethical questions related to the related scientific research.

The book is committed to the publication of original research on Halal way of life as culture and civilization. It particularly welcomes work of an interdisciplinary nature that brings together history, religion, politics, culture and law; with a special focus on Asia and on contemporary Islamic thought.

Contributions that display theoretical rigor especially work that link the particularities of Islamic discourse to the enterprise of knowledge and critique in the humanities and social sciences, will be most welcomed by the editorial board. Every submission will undergo a double-blind peer review process.

Basic Requirement

- Length: Finished manuscripts should be between 2,500 - 3,500 words, excluding references. This will be somewhere between 10 - 12 single-sided, double-spaced manuscript pages. Chapters exceeding 3,500 words will be edited for length.
- Style: AHAL Institute uses APA Style in all of its publications. You should refer to the Publications Manual of the American Psychological Association, 6th edition, for the appropriate way to format in-text citations and the reference list. Tables and figures should also be formatted in accordance with APA style.
- Potential contributors: Please attach a short biography of not more than 200 words with your manuscript.
- Suggested chapter outline: Introduction & chapter map, development of topic, current or proposed solutions, conclusions and recommendations to readers.
